TRUMAN'S MOTHER DIES

Truman's Mother Succumbs at 94

GRANDVIEW, Mo., July 26 (AP)—Mrs. Martha Truman, mother of the President, died at 1:30 p. m., E. D. T., today. Her death came just one hour after the President had taken off from Washington to be at her bedside. She was 94. Dr. Joseph Greene, the family physician, made this brief announcement by phone to the Associated Press: "Mrs. Truman passed away at 11:30 (Central Time) this morning."

Dr. Greene said Mrs. Truman, unconscious since last night, was able to converse with him yesterday and that she was alert at that time, although her condition has been exceedingly critical ever since she suffered a setback last week.

He telephoned the President at Washington this morning informing him that Mrs. Truman probably could not live through the day. Mrs. Truman immediately ordered his plane, the Sacred Cow, readied for the trip. It was due here between 2:30 and 3 p. m.

INJURED IN FALL

Mrs. Truman, spry and in general good health despite her advanced years, suffered a fracture of the right hip last Feb. 13. She fell in the yellow frame bungalow where she has lived with her daughter, Miss Mary Jane Truman, for many years.

It was the third time in seven years that she had suffered a similar injury. In 1940 she fell, fracturing her left hip. Again in 1944 she fell, fracturing the same hip and her left shoulder, but completely recovered.

After the third accident, Mr. Truman flew home, spent two days with his mother and left with encouraging news of her progress.

Three times since then he flew out to be at her bedside, and each time physicians reported she would walk again. They praised her "fighting heart," her "will to get well," and the care given her by Miss Truman.

For several hours a day she sat in her wheel chair.

COMPLICATIONS DEVELOP

Then on May 9 complications involving the liver developed. She began carrying a temperature.

Brig. Gen. Wallace Graham, the White House physician, flew here from San Antonio where he was on temporary duty, and remained with her.

He reported that the complication was cleared up and that he was planning on having her try walking within a few days. However, on May 16 she suffered two sinking spells. Gen. Graham ascribed the conditions to a weakening heart.

President Truman, notified of the situation, flew home landing in a thunderstorm.

Cheered by the arrival of her son, Mrs. Truman was able to sit up for three hours the next day, talking with the President and other members of the family.

The President spent a 12-day vigil at her bedside at that time.

Mrs. Truman was born on a farm, in what now is the heart of Kansas City's business district. Her parents, Solomon and Harriet T. Louisa Young, had migrated from Kentucky 10 years before, in 1842, and she inherited the spunk and fire and independence associated with pioneer Kentuckians.

Three days after Christmas, in 1881, she was married to John A. Truman, a farmer and mule trader and in 1883 the young couple settled in Lamar, Mo. There, their first child was born, on May 8, 1884. Sixty-one years and a few weeks later he was sworn in as the 33rd President of the United States.

Two years later the Trumans moved back to a Jackson County farm and Mrs. Truman lived in the old homestead until 1938, when she and Mary Jane moved to Grandview.

Forrestall Named Defense Chief

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)—President Truman today sent to the Senate the nomination of James V. Forrestal to be Secretary of Defense under the armed forces unification setup.

Forrestal's nomination went to Capitol Hill shortly after Mr. Truman signed legislation unifying the Army Navy Marines and Air Forces under one Cabinet officer.

80th Congress Races Toward Adjournment Late Tonight

By RAYMOND WILCOVE

WASHINGTON, July 26 (INS) — The 80th Congress drove hard for adjournment today but it appeared that the Senate would be in session until nearly midnight to pass remaining major "must" legislation.

The Senate took up the $111,000,000 final supplemental appropriation bill, the last money measure awaiting passage. It carries $11,000,000 to implement President Truman's program to investigate the loyalty of federal workers.

A $1,657,000,000 fund to finance the administration's foreign aid program passed the House and went to the Senate. The bill, one of three large money bills which must be cleared before the lawmakers begin their vacation, was $258,000,000 below estimates in President Truman's requests. It includes $400,000,000 for aid to Greece and Turkey, $332,000,000 for relief in liberated European countries, $600,000,000 for Army administration and relief in occupied countries, and $73,361,400 for the international refugee organization.

Confirmation of Navy Sec. Forrestal as National Defense Secretary under the Armed Forces Unification Bill, signed this morning by the President, was late today. The Senate Armed Services Committee was to meet at 4 p.m. (EDT).

The way for Senate action on the "must" bills was cleared when Sen. Taft (R.) of Ohio, moved to lay aside temporarily consideration of the investigation of Atty. Gen. Clark's handling of Kansas City election frauds.

The House passed and sent to the White House a bill directing the Commodity Credit Corp. to continue its price support program for domestic wool growers until Dec. 31, 1948.

The Senate passed and sent to the House a concurrent resolution setting up joint subcommittees to investigate "present high prices of consumer goods" during Congress adjournment.

Heiress Hinted Alive, Elopement Or Kidnap New Clues

By DONALD J. McPHAIL

HOLDERNESS, N. H., July 26—The mystery disappearance of Anne Straw, 20, heiress foster daughter of H. Ellis Straw, wealthy Manchester banker, was kept secret for two days by police at the insistence of her influential parent because he feared from the outset she was a kidnap victim and wanted every opportunity to deal alone with her abductor. This was learned by the Boston American today as her father abandoned further thought that Anne had drowned while swimming in Little Squam lake Monday night. He paid off divers who have been exploring the deep waters there for three days.

MATE HELD IN HER DEATH—Lewis Eliops, 24, of Newark, N. J., was under arrest today after allegedly confessing that he stripped his wife, Jean, 23, clubbed her with a rock and held her head under waters of the Passaic river until she drowned. He tried to drown himself, but attempts failed.

Investigators today concentrated on two theories in their widening search for the attractive heiress—kidnaping or an elopement. The abduction angle was paramount because of a note known to have been received by Straw at the family's swank summer lodge here since Anne vanished.

ON HIGHER AUTHORITY

This note, which a government official commented "could have been sent by a kidnaper or an extortionist," and state police admission that the family's mail was being intercepted on orders of "an authority higher than ours," provided strong indication that authorities fear the girl, if alive, is being held against her will.

The elopement theory was based primarily on rumors, current throughout this vacation area, linking Anne in a romance with various youths. One report even named Paris as a possible rendezvous spot for the girl and her boy friend.

Canadian border officials were notified today to be on the lookout for the girl. Federal authorities disclosed that a passport Anne obtained for a trip to Europe last summer is still in effect. It also was learned that the missing girl has three checking accounts, but investigators pointed out that any attempt to withdraw funds—either by the girl herself or by abductors—would necessarily reveal her identity and whereabouts.

Border officials were alerted when Smith College friends of Anne reported one of her closest girl chums lived near Toronto. This girl, also was a Smith student, was identified only as "Joan."

HEARD GIRL'S SCREAMS

But while some investigators were probing her reported romantic friendship, State Police Sgt. Stuart Currier, in charge of the probe here, centered his efforts on a widespread search of the lakeside woods here as the result of a woman's report that between 5 and 6 a. m., Tuesday, she heard screams from off Little Squam Lake.

Mrs. Catherine Telfers of Holderness, whose Route 3 home is out of sight but within hearing distance of the lake, informed police she heard a girl scream:

"Help! Help! No, let me alone."

This report inserted a new time angle into the case. Anne's parents had reported that the girl had retired, along with other members of the family—her mother, father and her aunt, Miss Ruth Higgins—at 10 p. m. Monday. A maid told police she heard Anne get up at 11 p. m. None of her clothes is missing, so far as is known, and her wallet was found on a night table side of her bed. She was clad in two-piece summer pajamas. A white bathing suit and a flashlight were found on the lake shore about 100 yards from the lodge porch.

Mrs. Telfers said she attached no serious significance to the early Tuesday morning shouts from the lake until she learned of the intensive search for Anne. The Telfers' cottage is located about one-half mile from the spot where Anne's bathing suit and flashlight were discovered.

When Anne's father heard of the Telfers' report he ordered the search of woodlands over an area covering several miles. Sgt. Currier said Deputy Sheriffs Samuel H. Gardner of Littleton and Fred Hunt of Bristol, with six of their men and volunteers, would join State Troopers in checking the entire section, especially unoccupied summer homes and barns.

At the same time, plainclothes investigators, reported to be FBI agents, were seeking to trace the money-demanding note received by Anne's father. Presence of these two undercover men, who are living at the Straw summer home, went unexplained.

"VERY MUCH IN LOVE"

Operating in two black sedans with Massachusetts registration plates, they are known to have taken several trips from the Straw home armed with samples of Anne's handwriting and her fingerprints. They are co-operating with State police, who said they were not permitted to discuss their activities.

One of the tight-lipped pair admitted, "We are not up here for our health. We are under orders to work on this case." Whether they were responsible for halting all mail addressed to the Straw family at the local postoffice could not be determined.

In investigating the possibil-

LAWRENCE, July 26 — Two persons were hospitalized and a dozen fled to safety today when flames swept a three-story dwelling in Belmont st.

Mrs. Mary E. Foley, 60, an occupant of the second floor, was treated at Lawrence General Hospital for burns suffered in her escape, while Peter Wynn, a first-floor occupant, was treated for a head laceration received when he leaped from a first-floor window.

Rescued was Mrs. James Conlon whom firemen carried three stories over ladders.

Curley Speeds Home To See Stricken Son

Mayor Curley was being rushed over the road from the Danbury, Ct., federal prison this afternoon to visit his son, George, 28, at the Cohasset Hospital, where the younger Curley underwent an emergency operation yesterday for the removal of blood clots from his right leg and right lung.

The mayor won a personal plea to the Department of Justice in Washington for prison leave and was on the way here in an automobile with two guards and a prison physician before his family learned he was coming.

His son was in a critical condition yesterday when the plea was made but was reported "slightly improved" today by Dr. Edward H. Schott at the hospital. The mayor was ordered returned to the prison tonight. It was estimated he might not have more than two hours with his son.

Mary Curley Donnelly, the daughter, checked news of Curley's impending arrival here with authorities at the prison and was told her father had been allowed to make the trip after George's condition had been checked by federal authorities who contacted the hospital and family doctor.

"I'm certainly glad he is coming," she said at the family's summer home in Scituate. "George is a very sick boy and this might help him."

She added the entire family would be waiting at the hospital for a brief reunion with the mayor. She said also the doctor had said tonight would be a crucial post-operative period for her brother.

The prison physician accompanied Curley because the mayor has been under treatment for diabetes since he was committed a month ago to serve a 6-to-18 months sentence for mail fraud.

George, a Navy veteran, was taken to the hospital in an ambulance two weeks ago in critical condition from attacks of pneumonia and pleurisy.

'FIGHTING MAC' DIES

MYSTERY OF LIFE

BECKLEY, W. Va., July 26 (AP)—The War Dept. says L. H. Swaim of Beckley is officially dead, but he personally disputed the record today.

Swaim, about 50 and a veteran of World War I, was captured by the enemy in the first war and after a period was declared officially dead.

His peculiar situation came to light when the Beckley American Legion post wrote to the War Dept. for his service record. Swaim said the Army failed to change his record despite his efforts to have it revised after he returned from overseas.

The War Dept. also refused to accept the service insurance money which was paid to his mother, Swaim added.

Secret Papers Emphasize Lincoln's Stature, Humanity

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

WASHINGTON, July 26 (INS)—The image of Abraham Lincoln as an American immortal is brightened and clarifed today by disclosure of the 18,000 private papers and state documents kept secret since his murder 82 yers ago.

The nation's foremost Lincoln scholars, who spent the night poring over the long-sealed treasure trove of Lincolniana, concurred in this first estimate of the Great Emancipator's papers.

It appeared that the Civil War President's son, Robert Todd Lincoln, who presented the collection to the government, had destroyed all documents reflecting on his father's enemies or revealing family secrets.

The documents, unsealed at midnight in the Library of Congress, cast new light on Lincoln as a statesman, a symbol of democracy, and a man of patient, ironic humor and immense natural dignity.

TROUBLES WITH CABINET

They revealed Lincoln's troubles with members of his cabinet, notably Secretary of State William H. Seward and Secretary of the Treasury Salmon P. Chase.

But they contained, at least in preliminary study, nothing to tarnish the Lincoln legend, nothing to discredit his contemporaries, no hint of secret shadows in his personal life.

Under terms of Robert Lincoln's gift, the data was sealed until 21 years after his death. He died July 26, 1926.

The collection included more than 1200 letters to or about Lincoln's generals, 135 of them involving Gen. Ulysses S. Grant. But there was no indication of discord in any of the letters.

However, the documents included written memoranda from Seward and Chase, both powerful political figures driven by burning ambition, declaring their intention of leaving the cabinet.

BELIEVED SCREENED

The strong supposition that Robert Lincoln screened the collection to prevent any stigma from attaching to the great men of his father's day was supported by the fact that no reference was found to reported participation of Edwin M. Stanton in the assassination plot.

Stanton was Lincoln's secretary of war. The two were known to have clashed freuently. But the suspicion that Stanton was involved in the conspiracy which resulted in Lincoln's assassination on April 14, 1865, never has been documented.

The collection failed to contain

$52,000 Bail Holds Man in Salem Attack

Richard Z. Wysocki, 20, Essex st., Salem, was held for the September session of the Essex grand jury today after he was confronted in Salem district court by the pretty, blonde ex-Wave he allegedly kidnaped from her escort and attempted to attack in Forest River Park, Salem, June 26.

Wysocki was held in a total of $52,000 bail on charges of assault with attempt to attack Miss Mary K. Onley, 21, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. Austin L. Onley of the University of New Hampshire, assault with a dangerous weapon, using an auto without authority and driving after suspension of his license.

Arraignment of Wysocki had been postoned three times because the girl had not been able to leave Salem Hospital until today.

Her arm still in a sling, Miss Olney told Judge George B. Sears that Wysocki drove away with her after slugging Karl Kirchner, 31, Tappan, N. Y., a MIT junior, on the head with a rock and dragging him from the car in which the couple was seated.

Wysocki, she testified, then drove away with her to the park, dragged her out and attempted to attack her.

Police said they sped to the scene and discovered the girl and her assailant struggling in the glare of their headlights. The assailant escaped into the woods, but was arrested later at his home.

91st Birthday Just Routine for Shaw

LONDON, July 26 (AP)—George Bernard Shaw, 91 today, dismissed the occasion with snorts of mock exasperation and the assertion that few others could have survived so much "happy birthday rubbish."

Said the sage:

"Birthday celebrations are for those who think they can afford to waste time. I've hardly recovered from the last birthday. It nearly killed me—and it would have killed most men.

"Whoever utters that word, birthday, in my presence shall be put down as a man to be avoided."

Since early yesterday the postman has been delivering a good deal of "happy birthday rubbish"—letters and telegrams from all over the world—at the spacious, comfortable, exceedingly homelike retreat of the playwright-philosopher.

Shaw said he would spend his birthday working as usual in his outdoor study, instead of gadding about the country and winding up in London, where he maintains an apartment. He went to London a year ago and still regrets it, he says.

To anyone but Shaw it might seem a dull day: up by 8:30 a. m. for breakfast, a quick digest of the news in his den not later than 10:30, a vegetarian lunch about 1, a nap during which nobody dares disturb him, and then an evening of walking, working and fellowship with old friends.

One of Shaw's dietary mainstays is a salad of chopped vegetables. He says:

"Keeps my head completely clear and prevents my thinking from becoming muddled. More people ought to try it."

His health on the whole is considered better than it was a year ago. Only his eyes give him any real trouble.

Adm. Blandy Sees Atom War Inevitable as Nations Differ

An atomic war is almost certain to be fought because the nations of the world will fail to achieve permanent peace. This was the blunt prediction of the Navy's top expert on atomic warfare, Adm. William H. P. Blandy, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet, who arrived here aboard the USS Pocono to inspect Navy installations.

Blandy also revealed the Navy will conduct maneuvers in the Arctic this fall.

Blandy, who was in charge of the Bikini atomic tests a year ago, admitted that he felt little confidence in present efforts to preserve the peace.

He contended that scientific advances were far in advance of mankind's international morals and this made another war a certainty.

"I further think," he went on, "that Americans would prefer to fight another war rather than surrender their freedom, even knowing the full implication of atomic warfare as I do.

"I still think Americans believe in a government of, by, and for the people, rather than a police state governed by the boys in the back room."

The admiral said his task now is to prepare a fleet of 400 ships for any eventuality and that he will conduct maneuvers in Atlantic waters from the Arctic to the tropics.

He saw no radical change in naval warfare despite the threat of atomic attack, except that ships would be more widely dispersed but not scattered so widely as to be targets for airplane or submarine attack.

Party Girl's Own Story of Night-Clubbing for Hughes

Three glamorous New York models, interviewed by the New York Daily Mirror and International News Service, told of attending swank night club parties they said were financed by Johnny Meyer, Howard Hughes' publicity director. The girls are Linda Shelton, 23, reddish-blonde photographer's model from Dallas, Tex., Eva Madrid, 24, raven-tressed mannikin, and Joan Green, 27, red-haired model. Herewith is Miss Shelton's story, supplemented by the comments of the two other young women.

By LINDA SHELTON

As told to the New York Daily Mirror and International News Service

NEW YORK, July 26 (INS)—I went night-clubbing for the Howard Hughes company on several occasions in 1944 and 1945. On at least one date I remember a man they introduced as Mr. Krug. Another time, in El Morocco, I sat across the table from a man introduced as Mon Wallgren.

The way I got started going to these affairs was like this:

When I came to New York I couldn't seem to get started as a model. I didn't have enough clothes, and soon I owed back hotel rent.

I had met Johnny Meyer through a friend in Hollywood six months before. Then I bumped into him again at a cocktail party at the Ritz-Carlton with Pamela Drake.

I told Johnny I was in financial straits. Soon he invited me to parties with his friends.

He told me to look my best and to buy some new clothes. I did, and he paid me for them.

MEYER A 'NICE GUY'

Meyer was a nice guy. He gave me orchid corsages and he always reimbursed me for cab fares and so on.

I guess I met a lot of important people at the parties, but I don't know anything about politics so most of the names I don't remember.

I don't mind testifying before a congressional committee. I have nothing to hide.

As for conversation at the parties, all I remember was a lot of idle chit-chat.

No politics were discussed that I ever heard. As a matter of fact, Meyer did most of the talking, but kept his conversation on a light plane.

The parties were fun, but if they mean anything politically, it's news to me.

DIDN'T REMEMBER NAMES

(Eva Madrid said she met Meyer in California, also at a cocktail party. After that, she said, Meyer called her and said, "We're having another party and I want you to come to it. There'll be a lot of important people there. You'd better buy yourself some new duds."

(Miss Madrid said she bought new clothes, went to a party at the Mocambo where she met "many important people" whose names she now doesn't remember, and the next morning found $100 in her handbag.

(Model Joan Green said her contract with Meyer was through Miss Shelton. She told of going to a Meyer party at El Morocco where "we had a lot of fun." She said "many prominent persons" were there but she doesn't remember their names.

(After this party, Miss Green said, Meyer pressed $75 into her hand and told her "it's a Christmas present." Miss Green added: "I don't like the idea of his listing the Christmas present as an 'expense.' It throws a false complexion on the whole thing.")

Senators Demand Meyer's Return

WASHINGTON, July 26 (INS)—Sen. Ferguson (R.) of Michigan, said today that the full power of the government will be used to bring John Meyer, publicity man for Howard Hughes' Aircraft Co., before the Senate Investigating Committee probing the 40 million dollar aircraft contract awarded to Hughes.

Meyer, the party-throwing Hughes official, is now believed to be in South America.

Billing Parties To U.S. Wrong, Says Wallgren

OLYMPIA, Wash., July 26 (INS)—Gov. Mon C. Wallgren, freely admitting he had been "entertained" by Hollywood millionaire Howard Hughes, today branded billing the government for such parties as "wrong."

Washington's governor said while he was a U. S. senator he had been on "several parties" given by Hughes, whose transactions in connection with the building of a huge plywood airplane now are under Senate inquiry.

He said guests included Donald Nelson, chairman of the War Production Board, movie actor Gary Grant, and "many other such persons."

He recalled he had met Elliott Roosevelt at a cocktail party

E. Roosevelt Donald Nelson

Hughes gave in the Sherry-Netherlands hotel in New York City, Wallgren declared:

"There was nothing wrong with any of the parties, of course, if the expenses were charged to the building of ships, that was wrong. Not only Hughes, but nearly all industrialists gave parties.

"But certainly none of these parties could influence a senator's decisions."

BUILDING UP 10 PER CENT

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)—A 10 per cent increase in construction activity pushed building expenditures to $1,229,000,000 in June and gave jobs to 1,760,000 workers.

Hughes Denied Elliott Aided 40 Million Deal

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)—Howard Hughes was reported today to have denied specifically to the Senate war investigating committee that Elliott Roosevelt had anything to do with government award of a $40,000,000 wartime plane contract to Hughes and Henry J. Kaiser.

A member of the committee said privately he was present when Hughes testified behind closed doors several weeks ago that Elliott contributed nothing toward obtaining the contract.

Sen. Ferguson (R.) of Michigan, said a subcommittee he heads has been looking into reports that Elliott may have played a part in obtaining White House backing for the contract—described as having been stoutly opposed by the armed services.

ROOSEVELT PAPERS

That apparently was one of the objectives of the committee in issuing a subpoena for certain papers in the files of President Roosevelt.

Most of these papers were delivered to the committee yesterday.

Presumably, the committee hoped to find among these documents support for the contention of Ferguson and some other Republican members that White House pressure had been used to obtain approval of the contracts after the War Production Board and other agencies had ruled against them.

Whether Elliott Roosevelt exerted any influence in this situation seemingly has been one of the moving factors of the Republicans who are in charge of the investigation.

Hughes explained, the committeee member said, that Elliott had consulted with him on the technical aspects of building a photo-reconnaissance plane on a contract granted after the original agreement for construction of a plywood ship.

REVIEW OF EVIDENCE

At that time, Elliott was an Army colonel in charge of a squadron of photo-reconnaissance planes.

Disclosure of the Hughes testimony came before Chairman Brewster called the full committee together in his office for an informal review of evidence assembled by Ferguson's subcommittee in its preliminary investigation into the affairs of Hughes, Hollywood millionaire.

Members gathered in an atmosphere pungent with Brewster's charges yesterday that political pressure had been brought to bear on him to stop the investigation and an assertion by Secretary of Interior Krug that he was being made the victim of "a swindle of the grossest kind."

Krug said in a formal statement that he was not present at three affairs about which John Meyer, former publicity man for Hughes, purportedly listed expenditures for Krug's entertainment.

SIGNED, SAYS FERGUSON

Krug has reminded the committee that the Hughes-Kaiser contract was let before he became chairman of the War Production Board (WPB) in August, 1944. But Ferguson said that subsequently Krug signed an order releasing $1,500,000 to continue operations of the Hughes contract.

Brewster added he is convinced friends of Hughes have launched a campaign "to divorce the committee's inquiry from what happened to the government's $40,000,000 to what happened with the girls."

"They are trying to discredit this investigation as merely a smear," the Maine Senator declared.

HUNGRY?

DURHAM, N. C., July 26 (AP)—The Durham recreation dept. staged a pet show and everything went well until ribbons had been awarded various winners.

Then a billy goat, judged the largest pet in the show, decided it was lunch time and consumed his own ribbon and those from pets nearby.

Lincoln

allusion to one of the most remarkable of all American love stories, the romance of the young Lincoln with lovely Ann Rutledge.

The "Bixby letter," which has been called the most poinant letter of condolence ever written, was not found. This was the President's message to a mother whose five sons perished in their country's service during the Civil War.

HUMOR EXEMPLIFIED

Lincoln's humor was exemplified in a satirical note, in his own handwriting, commenting on the flood of requests pouring in upon him for commissions in the Union Army—with most of those seeking commissions asking for brigadier general rank, at least.

One of the most important results of the collection was the disclosure that the Emancipation Proclamation was tremendously popular throughout the north with citizens in all walks of life.

Correspondence was revealed showing that persons of all creeds, color and station praised the President for his masterful statement of a great human principle.

Included in the Proclamation correspondence was a warmly congratulatory letter from the great Italian liberator and revolutionary leader, Garibaldi.

LETTER FROM ROBERT

One communication from Robert Lincoln to his father was found. That was a telegram dated April 3, 1865, in which the son sought a meeting with the President, who at that time, with the war near its end, was en route from Washington to City Point, near Richmond, Va.

The collection contained 250 letters from Stanton to Lincoln. Every word of these letters was examined by the scholars eagerly seeking indication of the enmity between the two. But the letters apparently were routine messages from a cabinet officer to the Chief Executive.

One letter in the collection was highly critical of Gen. "Fighting Joe" Hooker and other leaders of the Army of the Potomac, accusing them of inefficiency, jealousy and conflicting ambition.

That letter was written by George H. Bokar, a Philadelphia journalist, to an editor named Forney, who apparently passed it along to Lincoln.

But no revealing reference was found to Gen. George McClellan, the brilliant strategist suddenly replaced, by Lincoln's order, as commander of the Potomac Army.

BROTHER'S APPEAL

One of the documents in the long-secret collection called Lincoln the "only child" of his father's own flesh and blood" and cleared for all time the virtue of the Great Emancipator's mother, Nancy Hanks.

A letter written by Lincoln's step-brother, John D. Johnston, blasted the suspicion of illegitimacy.

Johnston wrote Lincoln that their father was dying and wanted to see him. The letter said:

". . . For you are his only child that is of his own flesh and blood. It is nothing more than natere for him to crave to see you . . ."

The letters revealed Lincoln's magnanimous noblility of character, shown in his exercise of power to pardon those convicted of capital offenses.

When Gen. Benjamin A. Butler came to Washington to urge summary execution of 24 deserters whose sentence the President had commutted, Lincoln told him:

"Mr. General, there are already too many weeping widows in the United States. For God's sake, don't ask me to add to the number, for I won't do it."

THREATENING LETTERS

The collection disclosed that Lincoln received many threatening letters and warnings that he would be assassinated.

There were fanatical, anonymous scrawls and countless rumors of plots to murder him.

A Baltimore woman warned Lincoln, as President-elect, that a league of 10 persons had sworn he would not pass through the Maryland city alive.

Lincoln kept the threats in a special pigeon-hole in his White House desk. His son gathered at least 80 of them when the Great Emancipator met his cruel death.

Lincoln, however, refused to worry about the threats. One document showed that he refused to fret over them. He said:

"What does anybody want to assassinate me for? If anyone wants to do so, he can do it any day or night if he is ready to give his life for mine. It is nonsense."

PROVED SELF PROPHET

History shows it was far from nonsense, but that Lincoln was a prophet.

John Wilkes Booth gave his life in exchange for assassinating the Great Emancipator.

The documents disclosed a dramatic incident in 1842 which helped mend the strained feelings between Lincoln and Mary Todd, who later became his wife, and caused Lincoln to accept a challenge to a duel.

Mary Todd, the collection revealed, along with Lincoln and a girl friend, printed satirical articles in a Sangamon County, Illinois, newspaper, about James Shields, a local political appointee.

Shields challenged Lincoln to a duel. The rules of the conflict were set forth by Lincoln in a letter found in the collection.

REPUTATIONS CLEARED

But misunderstandings and smeared reputations were cleared up at the meetings on the dueling grounds across the river from Alton, Ill. Lincoln and Shields came back across the river in the same boat and remained friends for life.

Lincoln's stern attitude toward those whose overt acts threatened the Union cause was shown in the case of a man named Racy of Noble County, Ohio, who was convicted of conspiracy in 1864.

Racy petitioned the President for pardon, "presuming upon his goodness of heart."

Lincoln noted unequivocally on the file papers, "don't pardon Racy."

Lowell Man Killed, 3 Hurt as Car Hits Tree

LOWELL, July 26—James F. Hannon, 24, of Agawam st., was killed and three companions were in St. John's Hospital today as result of an accident in which their auto sideswiped a tree in Plain st. shortly before 3 a. m.

John Hickey, 24, of Blossom st., the car owner, suffered severe shock and lacerations. Richard Murphy, 23, of Chippewa st, and Daniel Mahoney, 22, of Anderson st., both badly bruised, were to be X-rayed.

Man Killed, Two Hurt in Maine Bus Crash

WELLS, Me., July 26 (AP)—One man was killed, two others injured and about 20 members of the Neptune Veteran Firemen's Ass'n in Newburyport, Mass., were shaken up today when a bus chartered to take the firemen to a Bath firemen's muster collided with a truck at Moody on U. S. Route 1.

Victor Langevin, 22 of Rochester N. H., said to be driving the truck, died at York Hospital of chest injuries.

SYNAGOGUE BOMBED

BUENOS AIRES, July 26 (INS)—The chief Jewish synagogue in Buenos Aires was damaged badly today by the explosion of a powerful bomb.

YOU'D SCREAM, TOO

CHICAGO, July 26 (AP)—When Marian Ochsner, 16, a cashier at a stand near the Hippopotomus Den at Brookfield Zoo came to work yesterday and rang up the "no sale" button on the register, she screamed.

Some of the zoo attendants looked to see if any of the "hippos" had escaped.

The cause for Miss Ochsner's alarm, however, was her discovery of a maternal, gray mouse and her five offspring in the cash box.

Hilton-Carens

THE MARRIAGE of Constice Marie Carens to Norman Joseph Hilton took place a nuptial mass this morning in St. John the Evangelist Church, Wellesley Farms, followed by a garden reception at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Carens, Wellesley Hills.

Rev. Joseph H. Driscoll, CSSR, officiated and the bride was given in marriage by her father before an altar banked with regal lilies, white delphinium and gold smilax.

She wore a white satin gown with a deep net yoke edged with seed pearl embroidery and a tulle veil caught to a shirred tulle headdress. Her bouquet combined bride roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. Timothy A. Lamphier

Betty Leahy of Brookline, the maid of honor, wore yellow organdie trimmed with hamburg lace and a white horsehair picture hat trimmed with yellow ribbon streamers. She carried an old fashioned bouquet of snapdragon, yellow daisies and sweet peas.

THE BRIDESMAIDS were Barbara Hilton, sister of the groom, Mrs. Timothy A. Lamphier (Joan Blake) of Brookline, Patricia and Letitia Burns, Winchester, Virginia Franks, Brookline and Marie T. O'Brien, Boston. They wore pastel gowns like the maid of honor's, two white, two pink and two blue.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander E. Hilton of East Orange, N. J., had his brother, John A. Hilton, of Jacksonville, Fla., as best man and there were 10 ushers.

Mrs. Carens wore for her daughter's wedding a gown of rose chiffon with a halo of pink roses and white orchid and stephanotis corsage. Mrs. Hilton chose a peacock blue gown and large pink hat trimmed with brown roses.

LT. COL. AND MRS. HARRY DUNCAN BISHOP, formerly of Milton, now of Seoul, Korea, announce the engagement of their daughter, Gloria, to Lt. George Tredendall Hoge, son of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. William Morris Hoge of Ft. Belvoir, Va.

The bride-to-be is a graduate of Wellesley College 1947. Lt. Hoge graduated from the U. S. Military Academy in 1945 and is with the 1st Infantry Regiment at Taegue, Korea. The couple will be married in September at Seoul.

A NUMBER of prominent North Shore residents are planning to see the well known dance satirists, Paul and Grace Hartman, in their new musical "Heaven Help the Angels" to be presented by the North Shore Players next week at Marblehead.

Among them are Mrs. Allen Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Thayer Quimby, Mrs. George Taylor, Mrs. Sturgis Dexter, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Hooper, and Mrs. Charles M. Green.

FEW SUBSCRIPTIONS

A limited number of subscriptions for the five remaining weeks of the North Shore Players season at Marblehead are available, is the word from managing directors Blake Johnson and John L. Washburn.

"REPEAT PERFORMANCE," with Louis Hayward and Virginia Field, has been booked into the Paramount and Fenway Theaters for a week's run, beginning Thursday.

Musical Opens Guild Season

"Allegro," the new Richard Rodgers-Oscar Hammerstein musical which comes to the Colonial Theater the week of Sept. 8, is expected to initiate the most successful Theater Guild in a decade.

First original musical By the famous duo, "Allegro" has been preceded by such fabulous examples of their teamwork as "Oklahoma," based on Lynn Riggs' play, "Green Grow the Lilacs" and "Carousel," suggested by Ferenc Molner's "Liliom."

Lawrence Langner and Theresa Helburn, the Theater Guild directors, have just returned from Hollywood where they are auditioning for "Allegro." They report that the production calls for approximately 16 principals, 20 dancers and no less than 40 singers.

Included in the plays from which the Theater Guild and American Theater Society offerings will be selected are:

"Lady Windemere's Fan," starring Cornelia Otis Skinner. The comedy had an unusually successful season on Broadway and the Guild will send it to all 20 subscription cities outside of New York during the coming year.

"The Winslow Boy," by Terence Rattigan, also author of "O Mistress Mine," to be produced with J. C. Wilson and H. M. Tennent, Ltd., of London.

"Jane," a new comedy by S. N. Behrman, based on a short story by Somerset Maugham. This is one of the biggest hits of the London season and Miss Helburn and Mr. Langner made a special trip to England to supervise the production.

"Death of a Rat," a new play by Jan de Hartog, a young Dutch author now living in America.

"Sweetest and Lowest," an intimate satirical English revue now in its fourth year in London, features Hermione Gingold, called the "funniest woman in England." English critics describe her as "a big, wonderful, lusty woman of 50, witty on an enormous scale and does marvelous things on the stage."

Miss Rebekah Hobbs, subscription manager, announces that new applications are now being accepted at the Theater Guild and American Theatre Society office in the Colonial Building, 100 Boylston st.

Stalin Film Just Iron Curtain Stuff

"The Vow," ambitious Soviet film which presumes to tell the world what makes Stalin and Russia tick, is now to be seen on the Old South Theater screen.

It is not likely to win converts to the cause nor even mildly interested spectators, for it is lumbering, heavy-handed, dull. There has been a terrific blue-pencil job done on the script, it is apparent, and there are great gaps where the powers that be deleted indicated explanations or situations or persons that might prove embarrassing.

This is strictly iron-curtain stuff, with so much left out that it is like a giant staggering around in his unclad bones.

Oh, yes, Stalin, who vowed in 1926 that he would carry through Lenin's plans to make Russia a strong military power, believes in large families and the Kremlin, inside and out, is a magnificent hunk of stuff.

Gen. Wedemeyer In China on Survey

SHANGHAI, July 26 (AP) — Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer flew here today on his fact-finding tour for President Truman, following such a swift pace he left some complaining Chinese officials in Nanking.

At his present rate of travel, he was expected to finish his work in China in little more than four weeks and move on to Korea.

Heiress

ity that romance was a factor in Anne's disappearance, detectives were not overlooking reports that the girl was "very much in love" with a man she met while on a vacation tour of France last summer.

This love angle was brought to light by Miss Shirley Kloepfer, 23, a Vassar graduate who traveled to Europe in the group with Miss Straw.

Miss Kloepfer, a Poughkeepsie, N. Y., business girl, said:

"I suspect she went back to France. She was very much in love with a man in Paris. We had a ob getting her to leave France on our tour last summer. Once when we went to England for two weeks, Anne went back to France."

The Poughkeepsie girl could not recall much about the man, she said, except that Anne met him at a youth hostel near the Swiss border, where he was in charge of a group of factory girls on a vacation trip. Miss Kloepfer added that she had been told by another girl who was on the European tour that Anne still was "very much in love" with this French youth.

LITTLE FAITH IN REPORT

But from a Dorchester man who was the leader of the travel group with which Miss Straw and Miss Kloepfer toured Europe, investigators got an entirely different view of Anne's friendship for the boy from France.

William Bliss, of Hamilton st., a chemical engineer at the Monsanto Chemical Co., Everett, said he placed little faith in the report that Anne had left home for the love of this youth. He added:

"I think she was fond of him as a friend, but I believe she was primarily interested in increasing her knowledge of the French language. I didn't get the impression there was anything serious between them. She didn't go out nights—of that I am sure.

"This French boy was with our international hostel group in the French Jura Mountains, about 10 miles from Geneva, Switzerland. We stayed there two weeks and she chummed around with him more than with the others, but I don't think it was serious. She didn't act like a girl in love.

VISITED HIM IN PARIS

"She went to Paris to visit him and his sister one week-end and to visit other families of French boys who were with us in the hostel. She never went out with him alone, that I know of."

Bliss said he recalled Anne as "not the reticent type, but a direct talker, probably a little stronger-minded and more independent than most college girls." He added he felt she was "capable of taking care of herself in most situations."

Meanwhile, the interest Anne has shown in young men during her three years at Smith College and in the summer months held the attention of investigators today.

The five Smith College girls interviewed today are councillors at the Woodcrest girls camp at Little Squam Lake, some two miles from the Straw summer home.

All five knew Anne at school, and one has told police she was a fairly close friend. Principal topic of the interviews, conducted separately, was whether Anne had any steady boy friend during the spring months at Smith.

Also discussed was whether any of the girls had seen Anne in the company of a young man during the past month at Holderness, Ashland, Plymouth or in theaters or gathering places of other nearby communities.

In charge of this interrogation was Sgt. Stuart Currier in charge of the search and aided by two other State Troopers. Also present during the lengthy conversations were the same two mysterious plainclothesmen.

KNEW HER BY SIGHT

Earlier, Sgt. Currier interrogated five young men in the early '20s. One is a year-round resident of the area and the others are staying at camps on both Big and Little Squam lakes.

The summer vacationists all told police they knew Anne by sight, often passing close by her lodge during fishing trips and while swimming. They said she frequently would wave to them and "pass the time of day" in a neighborly fashion, but their acquaintanceship with her was casual.

One youth, owner of an expensive car, told of seeing Anne more often around her property and talking with her at some length. He said she was a "likeable, cheerful sort but not my type." He denied being asked to use his car to drive the girl at any time.

State Police, at a conference with the parents in the lodge, contacted by telephone a Smith student who was known to the family as one of Anne's closest friends at school, it was learned.

DARTMOUTH STUDENT

This girl, in a long conversation, told investigators that Anne did not form any close attachments to her knowledge during the spring months.

The girl, however, gave police the names of three college students whom Anne had entertained at the school during their visits to Northampton. One of these, it was reported, is a Dartmouth student and the other two attend Williams College.

They will be checked along with all other youths whom the heiress knew well enough to converse with or possibly to correspond with, police said as the search turned more and more to the theory Anne's disappearance could be traced to a heart interest.

Meanwhile, the discovery of the girl's flashlight remained a baffling angle to the case. The switch was shut off, and the battery contained ample power, it was announced in contradiction of earlier reports the flashlight had burned itself out while pointed out into the water.

The spot selected by Anne to leave the flashlight and her one-piece white bathing suit is the least desirable section of the shoreline in the vicinity of her home. A bathing beach is being built there, and boulders are strewn in the water and on shore.

Styles for Juniors

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

JUNIOR IS NOT ONLY AN AGE . . . it is a size. It is a comprehensive term which fashion-wise now in cludes youngsters and their older sisters . . . providing the silhouette out line is in the smaller dimensions.

Designers and manufacturers have come to realize that young women with junior proportions cannot wear "baby" clothes simply because they are small-boned and small-bodied. They must have clothes that follow high-style trends yet proportioned to their size. They want to look their age!

And by the same token . . . juniors, despite their tender age and size, don't want to look "babyish" simply because they are young. In many respects, they enjoy looking like carb on copies of their adults. They want to look a mite older than their age!

So the bypass has been reached. And for fall and winter . . . there will be clothes for all juniors . . . according to size and age. Twelve New York manufacturers . . . who recently organized as Junior Dress Creators of the New York Dress Institute . . . sponsored an elaborate showing of their wares recently to display styles that were designed especially for the two groups.

SPECIALLY DESIGNED

At the showing it was pointed out that women with junior figures should not haunt the misses dress departments . . . but seek out the junior clothes which are not only styled for fashion but cut for their size.

And this being heralded as perhaps the most exciting fashion season in years . . . with the season's figure undergoing a change of dimensions and a readjustment of contours . . . junior, in age or size . . . should be careful in clothes selection lest their cute-as-a-button, diminutive figure be lost in the overwhelming silhouette presented.

For the first time in a great many years . . . coats, suits, dresses are sufficiently transformed to make women aware that last year's clothes LOOK like last year's clothes and will be readily spied as such. Longer skirts have been definitely established and in junior clothes this trend is also manifested and accented.

While long skirts are slenderizing . . . even flattering . . . they can make a junior, in age or size, look a little on the silly side unless the skirt length is properly adjusted to the proportion of the garment.

BIG ROUNDED collar-accent is an interesting note for this bright green woolen dressmaker suit (shown in center) . . . by Margot Dresses . . . with hipline moulding jacket and fully flared skirt.

GLORIFIED "sloppy-joe" in its refined 1947 version is this two piecer by Joanne Jr. Zinn . . . its brown wool middy top detailed with neckerchief and large side pockets . . . and its brown and white checked woolen skirt stitch-pleated. Here is an outfit . . . all juniors . . . careerists or school girls . . . will go for in a great, big way.

AND THAT JUNIOR is very often a size and not an age is reflected in this two-toned wool-and-rayon jersey dress by Silver, (shown at left) . . . an adult style adaptation for the girl with the youthful proportions . . . its rounded shoulderline and full patterned skirt up to trend magnitude. It is fashioned of russet and brown.

Gown at Bridal

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

To a formal afternoon wedding (four o'clock) should a woman guest wear a long gown or a street-length dress? A. D.

A woman guest at a formal afternoon wedding, in a church, in a house or in a hotel or hall or club, will be correctly dressed if she wears a daytime, street-length dress or a suit of dressmaker type.

Colorful Summer Breakfast Will Please All

By MARTHA LEE
Household Editor

COLORFUL SUMMER breakfasts in the cool morning hours are the inspiration for the day. Proudly served on the most colorful of table linens, this morning meal marks the success of the hours to follow.

A touch of cranberry red on breakfast menus adds a surprise note of freshness that's menu news today. Crushed cranberry sauce spiced for the occasion with a speck of cinnamon is an excellent spread for hot buttered toast.

BREAKFAST
Fruit Juice
Scrambled Eggs with Golden Brown Sausage
Fruity Roll-Ups
Coffee

FRUITY ROLL-UPS

6 slices fresh bread
½ cup canned cranberry sauce, crushed
4 tbsp. melted butter or margarine
¼ cup cinnamon sugar

Remove crusts from bread. Spread slices with crushed cranberry sauce. Roll pinwheel fashion and secure with toothpicks. Brush rolls with melted butter and sprinkle with a mixture of cinnamon and sugar. Place under broiler until rolls are a golden brown. Cut each roll in half and serve immediately.

Variety in breakfast breads is also welcome in the morning menu and the following will be your summertime favorites. Use prepared muffin mix as a substitute for the bread ingredients if desired.

WHEAT BUNS

Topping:
1 cup canned jellied cranberry sauce, crushed
1-3 cup chopped nut meats

MUFFINS
½ cup shortening
½ cup sugar 2 eggs
2½ cups sifted graham flour
3 tsp. baking powder
¾ tsp. salt
1 cup milk

Grease muffin pans (for about 12 to 14 muffins); cover bottom of each with cranberry sauce and chopped nuts. Cream together shortening and sugar; add eggs and beat well. Sift together graham flour, baking powder, and salt; add alternately with milk to creamed mixture, stirring only enough to dampen flour. Fill muffin pans 2-3 full. Bake in hot oven (425 deg. F.) 15 to 20 minutes. Remove from pans while still warm. Makes 12 to 14 medium-size muffins.

BREAKFAST CAKE

¼ cup shortening
1-3 cup sugar
2 eggs 1½ cups flour
3 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt ½ cup bran
1-3 cup milk

Blend shortening and sugar. Add well-beaten eggs. Sift flour with baking powder and salt. Add bran. Stir into first mixture alternately with milk. Spoon into greased baking pan, 8 x 8, or 6 x 10 inches. Spread about 1 cup cranberry sauce on top and sprinkle with the following topping:

Topping:
4 tbsp. brown sugar
½ tsp. cinnamon 2 tbsp. flour

Pour 2 tbsp. melted butter over topping and bake in oven at 375 deg. F. about 40 minutes.

NO TIME TO LOSE

GOVERNOR BRADFORD'S impromptu remarks to the Massachusetts National Guard Thursday at Camp Edwards may very well go down in history as the most important public address of his career.

"Let me tell you," the Governor said, "that you are providing a double service because there are now, in this country of ours, known and active subversive agents greater in number than all the combat troops in the United States.

"We cannot go into the National Guard, preparing, as we did after World War I, for a war that has already been fought. Today, an enemy could, overnight, land troops in this country—on our very front doorsteps; and could capture Pittsburgh or Iceland or Labrador.

"We must be ready to meet THAT kind of challenge."

This is a good argument for doubling and trebling the size of the National Guard.

It is, however, a BETTER argument for an early and effective program of universal military training, for, as Dr. Karl T. Compton, president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, has repeatedly told the nation, THE UNITED STATES ALONE AMONG THE GREAT POWERS HAS NO PROGRAM OF UNIVERSAL MILITARY TRAINING, AND ITS ARMED MIGHT IS STILL DWINDLING DANGEROUSLY WHILE RUSSIA KEEPS HER WARTIME STRENGTH INTACT.

Neither the American government nor the American people want to keep two or three hundred divisions of combat troops perpetually in the field, nor could we afford to do so even if we had the available manpower.

Such a military organization could be maintained in the United States only at the EXPENSE and to the DETRIMENT of our normal peacetime economy, from which we derive the prosperity and happiness of our people.

Accordingly, the only OTHER means we have of maintaining a military counterpart of the vast Russian combat organization is that which universal military training would provide—A TRAINED, DISCIPLINED AND COMPETENT MILITARY RESERVE OF MILLIONS OF MEN, not diverted from their productive occupations in time of peace, but instantly available for fundamental and essential military service in the event of sudden war.

The American people are truly fortunate in the fact that they do not have to maintain professional armies on the Russian scale in order to be safe, and of course the American people would not consent to their maintenance for any other purpose, since aggression and conquest are NOT American objectives.

But if we reject universal military training and continue to permit Congress to do so, we will simply be making one of our oldest and worst mistakes all over again and burying our heads, like ostriches, in the sands of disillusionment as we did before Pearl Harbor.

No realistic person can deny that universal military training is the best and most democratic instrument we can adopt for national safety.

EXPENDABLE?

THE MANIAC DRIVER, like the handbag snatcher and bank robber, is very often the product of an early and unwholesome environment.

Edward Morrell, aide to Motor Registrar Rudolph E. King, said so the other day.

"Recklessness while operating automobiles," said Mr. Morrell, "is incalcated while drivers are young. Parents allow their children to ride bicycles in utter disregard of all law. The children wheel along the wrong side of the street, with passengers on the handlebars and without rear lights."

Don't ask us why mothers and fathers tolerate this sort of thing. We don't think children are expendable, but there are disquieting grounds for the growing suspicion that some parents do.

I wish I could remember the first day,
First hour, first moment of your meeting me.
If only now I could recall that touch
First touch of the hand in hand—
Did one but know!
How soon a day is night,
And life is fleet.
I wish I could remember the first day,
I first hour, first moment of your meeting me.
A day of days! I let it come and go
As traceless as a thaw of bygone snow.
It seemed to mean so little, meant so much.
If only now I could recall that touch
First touch of the hand in hand—

IT HAS BEEN CLAIMED 9,0000,000 unnecessary operations are annually performed on human beings in the U. S. A. That's a lot of unnecessary operations. I once had two unnecessary operations performed on me in three months. Both were for the removal and cure of a carbuncle. The second operation nearly killed me. I was later informed by Dr. Fordyce of Manhattan, one of the world's greatest medical men, that if I hadn't been so young and healthy I surely would have been a dead duck. Neither operation cured the carbuncle. Dr. Fordyce cured it without an operation.

Q—Has there ever been a play or film titled "The Clinging Vine?" A—Peggy Wood, the brilliant and beautiful Brooklynite, starred in a play with that title in the early, 1920's. SWEEPSTAKES: Not all the profits of the Irish Hospital sweepstakes go to the upkeep of Ireland's hospitals. The four controlling promoters of the sweep get quite a share of the profits. In fact, Joe McGrath, managing director of the Irish Sweep, who was a comparatively poor man in the early nineteen thirties, is now a millionaire. From the recent Epsom Derby Sweepstakes the four promoters took a $280,000 share or $70,000 each. From the 1947 Grand National Sweepstakes they took even more. The Irish Sweepstakes is illegal in Great Britain and it is a criminal offense to sell a ticket there. Nevertheless, of the $4,500,000 in the it is estimated about $4,000,000 came from Britain. Most of the rest was from the U. S. A., where, as you know, it is also illegal to sell a sweepstake ticket.

MULES & MEN: When a woman looks over a man who interests her it seems she certainly gives him a detailed examination and misses no characteristic of his physical make-up. For example, one of a group of Manhattan models who were stating what appealed to them in the appearance of certain male celebrities said that she admired "Dana Andrew's small, intelligent ears." Who said small ears were a sign of intelligence? And large ears an indication of a lack of intelligence? I resent that claim. Not for any personal reasons as I have medium sized ears. But I consider it a reflection on my good friend Bing Crosby. I have instructed our Mules & Men experts to immediately launch an intensive investigation as to the relation of the size of ears to male intelli-

OVER THERE: Seventy-five thousand people attended one session of greyhound races in London recently. On the feature race, the Greyhound Derby, the equivalent of $4,000,000 was wagered. That shows you to what extent the British bettors have gone to the dogs. The Derby was won by Trev's Perfection, owned by a man who never bet a cent on either a dog or a horse in his life. This man, Fred Trevillion, a trucking magnate, breeds racing Greyhounds as a hobby. His object is to try to improve the breed of British racing greyhound so it will be superior to the Irish greyhounds. For years the Irish have been breeding the world's finest racing greyhounds.

FAR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1947, by Kingsport Syndicate, Inc.

In view of the pres Congressional investigation of Howard Hughes' war contracts for airplanes t his associations with Government ofials, the following Westbrook Pegler coun of May 4, 1946, is republished in full

THERE ARE SEVRAL PHASES of Elliott Roosevelt activities and associations, in additn to his defaulted loans, which would be thoroughly investigied by appropriate comittees of Congress if he Democrats were not in control and determine to suppress all informaion which would tend to discredit the character vith which the party has endowed his late father

Westbrook Pegler

Practical politicians on both sides recognize that this character is one of the greatest assets of the Democratic Party and the Republicans therefore are as eager to discredit it as the Democrats are to preserve it.

Whether the Republicans, in a similar position, would act otherwise we do not know. Mr. Coolidge did not try to protect the Harding Administration, but it would be naive to expect that the Democrats would give him credit for virtuous motives.

Such is the cynicism of the game of politics that Republicans might not attribute such motives to him.

Certain operations of Howard Hughes, the rich Houston, Texas, and Hollywood manufacturer, motion picture producer and aviation magnate, would come under scrutiny were the Republicans returned to power in Congress.

Hughes and Elliott Roosevelt are intimate friends. Hughes is also a friend and might be called a protege of Jesse Jones, of Houston, the former Secretary of Commerce. The Joneses have known him since his childhood and regard him highly.

IN 1943, THE RECONSTRUCTION Finance Corp. put up $18,000,000 to enable Hughes and Henry Kaiser to build three enormous wood and plastic cargo planes, more than twice the size of the B-29 and capable of carrying 650 persons.

Construction began at Culver City, Cal., but Kaiser withdrew when it developed that the $18,000,000 would not produce even one of these ships.

Jones, as head of the RFC, told Hughes, he himself would have to pay any excess cost, and Hughes carried on. The ship has not been completed, however, and it may never fly. The experience may be worth something to aeronautical science, but there is, of course, no standard by which to appraise the value of such information.

The Army Air Forces had become interested in another Hughes plane in 1939. Gen. H. H. Arnold states it seemed suitable for military use and that the design was highly interesting because duramold construction was to be used and the ship presented the promise of improvement in the aerodynamic and structural arts.

Aluminum was scarce and Gen. Arnold thought it might be possible to get quantity production in spite of the shortage.

On July 8, 1942, President Roosevelt personally inquired about this ship which Gen. Arnold describes as suitable for high-speed, long-range, high-altitude service. The next year, the Germans were knocking down many American photo-reconnaissance pilots in P-38s.

"We needed something that would do the job and out-run the German fighters," Gen. Arnold wrote, "The British Mosquito had proved itself but we were unable to get Mosquitoes in sufficient quantities. The Hughes airplane was the only one already designed which appeared entirely suitable and which could be produced in time to do any good."

ON SEPT. 3, 1943, GEN ARNOLD "verbally" directed that 100 of these ships be bought from Hughes. The aluminum shortage had passed and the wooden construction had been abandoned in favor of metal.

The contract with Hughes was terminated last September without the delivery of a single ship. The Army still expects to take two, however, for experiments. The 100 ships were to have cost $48,000,000 plus a maximum fee of four per cent. Thus, about $50,000,000 of public money was committed to Hughes' projects which produced nothing.

Elliott Roosevelt returned from Europe in the Autumn of 1943 and served for a period at the War Department as chief of the reconnaissance branch. He was head man and it was during this time that Gen. Arnold gave his verbal order for

Hollywood

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, July 26 — Donald O'Connor, who was a blue kid six months ago, is looking on the sunny side of life these days, and well he might. He's a wow (and how) in Deanna Durbin's "Something in the Wind." He has the hit "Are You With It" coming up and U-I has just bought a very funny original, "Traditionally Yours," for him.

Donald O'Connor

This is a radio skit, adapted to the screen by Bill Bowers, and is so funny on paper that the bosses are trying to hide their smiles. (When a studio boss smiles the price always goes up). It's about a little guy, mistaken for a jockey, who has to prove it to a bunch of gangsters.

Leonard Goldstein produces. There are those who believe Donald will become to Universal-International what Mickey Rooney once was to MGM—top man on the box office poll.

LOUIS B. MAYER, who has discovered some mighty big stars for MGM, and built them into power names, has always believed in Ann Miller. Now he has personally signed her and will find stories for her.

I suppose you are thinking, "but Ann Miller isn't a newcomer." Right. She isn't. But she has never hit big in spite of the many movies she's made.

From here on you'll be seeing her in MGM's important musicals, dressed by the studio glamor makers, and dancing in beautiful settings. Then we'll see a "new" Ann Miller, or I miss my guess.

AS SOON AS John Wildberg reaches London he will interview Paulette Goddard for Robert Kane. Paulette had expressed a desire to star in "Anna Lucasta," and if she's still of that mind, Wildberg, who produced the original "Anna Lucasta" on the stage, will consult with her.

Phil Yordan's new treatment of the highly successful, censorable play has been approved by the Johnston office and now that there's nothing in the way, Bob Kane is busy making arrangements for the movie which 20th, as we told you, will release.

PEGGY LEE'S highly stylized "whispering" type of singing may be your dish of tea—or it may not. But she's plenty hot and her records sell like cakes off the griddle.

This is not lost on George Pal, who has just signed blonde Peggy to sing two numbers in his $3,000,000 "Tom Thumb" with live and animated action.

What interests me is that Peggy sings two of her own compositions, "Sleep in Peace" and "Take a Little Time to Smile," with the understanding she will record neither number until after the picture is released.

Writing your own songs is one of the quickest ways to get rich I know—if they are hits.

HARRY COHN protested violently to me that I had failed to mention Jean Louis in the list of Hollywood's top designers. Believe me, that was entirely unintentional, because I know that Louis, who dresses Rita Hayworth in her pictures, will certainly be one of the top contenders if recognition is given by the academy to these men and women who help put our movies over.

So, Harry, here's an extra plug for Jean Louis. OK?

INTERESTING is what Walt Disney has to tell about the authenticity of "The Little People," the film he is going to make in Ireland. Walt has no intention of getting the dander of the Irish people up. Sure shows good judgment there, because when the Irish are mad they certainly can get mad—and I know.

He has signed Lawrence Watkins, author of "On Borrowed Time" and other fanciful stories, to write the screenplay. Watkins sails for Ireland, July 31, where he will have the co-operation of Eamon De Valera and the Irish folklore commission in studying the authentic Irish legend.

Barry Fitzgerald is wanted for the live sequences in the film. You can't wonder at that, can you?

ON MONDAY Bette Davis will be on the Warner lot for the first time since the birth of her baby. She starts work in a month and now that her new dressing room is all ready, she'll move there as soon as her picture, "Winter Meeting," goes before the cameras.

Bette Davis

The stories about the nurse who threatened to sue Bette illustrate better than any words of mine how often movie stars are at the mercy of people they engage. She kept the nurse two days, and it seems the nurse will claim Betty agreed to keep her for six months. What did she think she had, a motion picture contract?

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD Collected at Random: Mickey Rooney and Diane Garrett, a model who is as tall as all the girls Mickey chooses to be seen with, a twosome at Ciro's.

On her way back from the East Joan Caulfield, who is my guest Sunday on the radio, stopped off in Chicago. She kept a date with Billy De Wolfe at the Pump Room. Joan has some very interesting things to say about the Hollywood men and it's well worth listening to.

Shirley Temple's first feature picture, "Little Miss Marker," is being reissued and all the proceeds will go to the Damon Runyon Fund. It was Damon who wrote the original story.

Pat Norris, the girl who attracted so much attention about six months ago when she became the first female to climb Mt. Whitney on skis, is being tested at Warners.

Perc Westmore has invented a home hair dryer, modeled on the plans of the big expensive ones, and it sells for $19.75. That means any woman can afford to have a dryer in her own home.

Ed Wynn, currently celebrating his 45th year in show business, is planning to produce a "Ziegfeld Follies" show in England with himself featured. Keenan would be good, too—not that I am trying to get him out of the country, because I like Keenan.

Bob Hutton and Cleatus Caldwell have bought a beautiful new home in Beverly Hills and are moving in from the valley.

Ben Alexander dining with his ex-wife at King's, admits they hope very much to reconcile. Well, we hope they will.

That's all today. See you Monday.

Listen to Louella O. Parsons Sunday night 9:15 to 9:30 over ABC.

Boston After Dark

SATURDAY CHATTER: Live specimens of various types of penguins found in Antarctica by Adm. Richard Byrd's dauntless Navy crew are being kept in a Boston ice firm's storage house . . . Penguins are the small-brained bird which science maligns as the most dumb species extant . . . On the Byrd expedition, tests of the penguins' stupidity were made . . . Chloroform was futile in attempts to render the laboratory penguins unconscious, and needle tests of the birds' brain area reportedly got a minus reaction.

THE PENGUIN colonies nevertheless have worked out a communal life for themselves in which a penguin-al idea of right and wrong is established . . . Derelictions of the penguin code are punished severly . . . The penguins on ice in Boston are being studied in captivity . . . The chances are slim that they will be returned to their native habitat . . . The 1947 Byrd expedition is not likely to have a sequel, say friends of the Admiral.

REFUSAL of the State Department to acknowledge discovery claims of some 2500 miles of Antarctica coast line staked out for America in the recent exploration are discouraging . . . The State Department bases its policy on the need of international amity, and the futility of provoking possible national jealousies over a huge wasteland which cannot be exploited within the next couple of millions years . . . The ice of most of Antartica is 600 feet thick and under the ice is a couple of miles of frigid ocean.

THE SURPRISE HIT of the summer season is the solid success of the Tavern-on-the-Charles, the Hotel Fensgate's outdoors cafe at the River's edge on upper Beacon st. . . . Good weather has helped make the attractive al fresco Tavern a thriving oasis for persons who like to dance after dinner or supper.

BABE RUBINSTEIN, New England's outstanding racing broadcaster, is protesting vehemently against being silenced for the $50,000 Massachusetts Handicap in favor of an imported announcer . . . A compromise may be worked out whereby Babe will be able to broadcast the big race over the lines of the Boston station, WMEX, which carry him every day of the long racing season.

BUT THE CONTRACT signed by the track for a coast-to-coast airing of the next Stymie victory (as we presumptuously choose to describe the Handicap) calls for an "exclusive" . . . Most Greater Boston race followers would make a quick choice between Rubinstein and the New Yorker coming here to call the race . . . And their ears would not be cocked to the machine-gun, guttural diction of Mr. McCarthy, we would bet . . . Rubinstein has been "big time" for a decade of race announcing . . . Few know that the Babe passed up a profitable assignment with one of the major networks because the offer was predicated on him assuming a stage, or airwaves, name . . . That was in 1935—that offer.

RUBINSTEIN has done very well, meantime, as the premiere man in his line in New England . . . But it's the New York reputation which pays off . . . The present situation in the case of the Massachusetts Handicap testifies to that . . . The two broadcasters, Clem McCarthy and Bill Corum, will net as much as the jockey of the winning horse for their trip to Boston and a few minutes work . . . Mr. Rubinstein will labor at his highly satisfactory wage throughout the best part of a New England race meeting to draw down that much money . . . The differential, of course, lies in that basic distinction of radio between "sustaining" and "sponsored" programs . . . Some day, we predict, the country will hear a Rubinstein broadcast of a big race, and The Babe will be thenceforth in coast-to-coast demand . . . His host of friends and admirers cannot be blamed for being disappointed that Wednesday will NOT be that important day.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

USUALLY, splinter parties are not taken too seriously and do not affect the functioning of the two-party system. A number of such parties appear on the ballot. The Prohibition party, the Socialist party, the Communist party and others have sought votes without much consequence.

There are exceptions. The Progressive party of Theodore Roosevelt in the Bull Moose campaign drew off enough votes to assure the defeat of William Howard Taft.

The American Labor party was an outgrowth of an apparatus devised by Franklin D. Roosevelt, Sidney Hillman, David Dubinsky, Jim Farley and John L. Lewis to assure Roosevelt the New York state vote. It was captured by the Communists, who used it as an infiltration mechanism into the Democratic and Republic parties. For a decade it held the balance of political power in New York state but was ultimately defeated by Tom Dewey and is now a neglible adjunct of the Communist party. The Liberal party has developed only local strength.

Henry Wallace's third party is of the Bull Moose variety in the sense that it is an organization of New Dealers devised either to control the Democratic party or to defeat it in the forthcoming presidential election. Thus far it has made no impression upon the Democrats in Congress but it has succeeded in frightening President Truman. Unquestionably the specter of Henry Wallace's third party is responsible for Mr. Truman's adamant attitude toward the Taft-Hartley bill and the tax bills. Truman declined to give Wallace the issue he sought.

The Wallace third party is made up of the curious amalgam of center-to-left groups that formed one side of Mr. Roosevelt's political foundation. This included, under Roosevelt, and includes now, under Wallace, not only the Communist Party, but the left-wing fellow-travelers and innocent affiliates of Communism who serve Soviet Russia either ideologically or sentimentally. If Henry Wallace can succeed in rebuilding this amalgam, which fell apart on Roosevelt's death, he ought to have a voting following of about 5,000,000 citizens.

This is a more potent strength than either Theodore Roosevet or Robert La Follette had as a starting point. Beyond doubt, if Wallace goes through with his third party plans, Mr. Truman will be defeated no matter which Republican is chosen to run against him.

The fact is so obvious to professional politicians that it has weakened Mr. Truman's status as President. To Democrats, it means also that if Mr. Truman appeases Wallace, seeks a deal with him, restores him to the vice-presidency or a cabinet position, permits him to influence policies, Truman becomes a prisoner of Wallace and his group. This prospective loss of independence of action by the President puts the Democrats in Congress in so humiliating a position that many of them prefer their party's defeat as the only means of restoring its character.

The Republicans, on the other hand, are measuring their own prospects in terms of Wallace as an issue. This would finally eliminate Stassen, for it would make the Republican party definitely anti-Russian, more rigidly anti-Communist. They will, during their investigations and probes this summer, seek to destroy the reputations of New Dealers, particularly those closest to the left-wing groups in the Roosevelt amalgam. By following this course they will weaken Wallace and Truman simultaneously, for unless Truman attacks Wallace directly he becomes associated with him indirectly.

To Harry Truman this presents a sad dilemma. For if Wallace's strength is as great as it seems to be, 5,000,000, then Truman dare not split with him sharply until Wallace splits off definitely. On the other hand, if Wallace continues, Truman cannot be re-elected.

the 100 Hughes planes. For a number of reasons, technical and industrial, Maj. Gen. O. P. Echols had opposed the adoption of this plane to the end, but was overruled.

Setting forth his position, Gen. Arnold wrote that money was never a first consideration when American lives and American victory were at stake.

"I let contracts for anything which offered a probability of speeding victory. I would be the last to claim that this process was economical in dollars. In fact, I have never claimed that war is economical."

When Elliott Roosevelt, then a colonel in the Army Air Corps, returned from England on Nov. 15, 1944, the Associated Press story said John E. Meyers, "public relations representative for Howard Hughes," was his host in New York where Elliott in those days generally stopped at the Waldorf and maintains an apartment there.

"He (Elliott) was a guest of Mr. Meyers at a party at the El Morocco night club last night," the AP said. "Mr. Meyers said Col. Roosevelt would go to Washington late today."

Less than a month later, on Dec. 3, when Elliott married Miss Faye Emerson at Grand Canyon National Park, Ariz., the press accounts said Meyers again was at his side to give the bride away and that Jack Frye, the president of TWA, the big airline, was best man. Howard Hughes owns the controlling interest in TWA.

Last December, Pan American Airways, generally regarded as the pioneer in trans-Atlantic navigation, petitioned the Civil Aeronautics Board to modify routes which had been allotted to itself, TWA and American Airlines.

Pan American's petition said the routes assigned would give TWA and American a monopoly of American-flag air service to Italy and the Soviet Union and to most of France and Germany.

"We ask the board to reconsider whether it actually desires to be guilty of the gross favoritism to TWA," the petition said. Further it charged that the board had practically thrown Pan American out of France and Ireland "for the benefit of TWA."

Sam Pryor, a prominent Eastern Republican and former national treasurer of the party, is one of the chief executives of Pan American.

Dyer's Back Pat For Our Braves Sounds Like Slur

By AUSTEN LAKE

ST. LOUIS, July 26—It was insulting in a way. For it patronized the Braves as being good, earnest, industrious kids with average talent who had gone far with little skill and now found themselves beyond their baseball depth. Eddie Dyer, the Cardinal manager, didn't mean it that way. He intended an appreciative papa-pat on the curly, chubby heads of the Braves. But it sounded like a slur.

So Eddie drawled before last night's game, "The league should award a special prize for merit to the team showing the most effort, industry and improvement. It would go to the Braves."

In other language, Dyer is conceding Southworth's orphan asylum an indulgent smile like Mrs. Roosevelt visiting an industrial school for underprivileged children. But don't confuse juvenile ambition (Braves) with time-tested experience (Cardinals), and don't send midgets on men's errands. Sweet essence of arsenic!

It was a moist, sweltering night in the dimly lit, ill-appointed Sportsman's Park, still the dingiest in the major leagues for all its face-lifting since the last World Series (O, mournful memory!). One of the Cardinals, in a hill billy twang, squinted through the overhead glare at the Braves in batting practice and asked, "Whut's holdin' them guys up? 'Ceptin' a few, they been picked up like parts in an auto junk yard."

Uncouth remark? Sure, but with an element of truth! Frank McCormick was a free agent; Mike a nominal purchase (Cincinnati); Litwhiler ditto (St. Louis); Hopp came high (St. Louis); Voiselle a trade-in (New York); Si Johnson, free agent; Barrett an expensive (St. Louis); Karl a swap (Philadelphia); and Lanfranconi, Berres and Torgeson, minor league pickups. And the rest, Rowell, Ryan, Sisti, Holmes, Masi, Culler, Wright, Spahn and Sain holdovers before Southworth came to Boston. Not a very prepossessing lot on paper—but the game isn't played on paper.

I SUPPOSE it irks the home town apologist in me that the Cardinals, respectful to be sure, refuse to take the Braves as serious pennant contenders. They assume the attitude that the Braves are a kind of summer itch, like chiggers or hives, which will gradually fade away. To them, Brooklyn is the real ailment. They're eczema! And Brooklyn follows the Braves here next Tuesday.

But the Braves, too, have more than their share of trouble ahead next week with a night game Tuesday and a Wednesday doubleheader at Pittsburgh, Friday and Sunday other doubles at Cincinnati.

"What will you use for pitching?" I asked Southworth who is now scraping the bottom of his barrel. He wagged his head and said, "Dunno." "Can you pull up anything from Milwaukee?" Billy said, "Nope." So there's no retreat. They must conquer or die!

Now as to the game which the Cardinals won, 5 to 1, with the Cards' Howie Pollet drilling the plate like a dentist inserting a gold inlay. Howie was his old sweet, World Series self, but he owed much of his luck to the even sweeter second base combination, Marty Marion and Al Schoendienst, who chilled off the Braves' batting rallies four times with double plays. And there, my friends, is the hallmark of a real pennant hunter, for nothing so paralyzes an attack as a brisk double play. I might add, with no intent to disparage but to point facts, that the Braves are among the lowest in the league in this department and it hurts.

Red (low-and-inside) Barrett expired with dignity following the Cardinals' 3-run third with the score 4-0, which the Braves never threatened seriously. Stout Red had awarded a gift run to his old mates in the first when he failed to touch first base on a wide roller to Frank McCormick and stood glaring reproachfully down at his No. 11, triple-D tootsies wondering how feet of such enormous size could possibly miss touching anything. Meanwhile, Schoendienst, on third, took advantage of Red's pre-occupation to stroll home.

Cards Move Under Eaves of League

POLLETT NOT only scattered 10 Braves' hits but he hit two triples and a single, the first of which touched off a third inning explosion which threatened to assume proportions of a mine disaster, what with three runs, three hits, two bases on balls and an error by Connie Ryan.

Billy Southworth spared Red the ignominy of being hooked out of there in public sight and saved him further embarrassment by excusing him under shelter of the dugout and waving in big Ed Wright, who is having a mild case of tonsilitis but can't spare the time to go to bed.

"You'll be seeing a lot of Wright during the next few weeks" mused Southworth prophetically before the game, referring to the flood of doubleheaders and night games. "Yeh! And old Si Johnson and Walter Lanfranconi and Andy Karl and Clyde Shoun too." There's going to be a lot of shrill yells for help. In fact, Billy yelled for old Si to come in during the ninth to throw up his mud pie balls.

I wish I could dress this opus with scholarly discussion of the technical aspects of this contest which, truth to tell, was just a case of Pollet, plus Cardinal power murdering anything suggesting Braves intellect. Instead of mind triumphing over matter, this was a prime sample in the shape of brute Cardinal coordination between eye, mind and muscle, overriding intellect in the shape of Southworth's mental manipulations with his pitching and batting order.

So, today the Cardinals have broken their second tie with the Braves and move up under the eaves of the league. They are far from a great team, but they are close to being the real class of the circuit.

Blackwell Carves Out Niche With Wood, Grove, Johnson

Ewell Blackwell's gaudy string of 16 straight wins, fashioned in the day of the rabbit ball and the dime-a-dozen home run, stands out as the most spectacular pitching feat of the decade, according to the Associated Press. Within reaching distance is Rube Marquard's fabulous record of 19 consecutive victories in 1912. No other pitcher in modern days has bettered 16, a long-standing high for the American League.

Even now, Blackwell's name is bracketed in the record books with Joe Wood of Boston, Lefty Grove of Philadelphia, Walter Johnson of Washington and Schoolboy Rowe of Detroit, co-holders of the American League record. The only other pitcher since 1900 to hit 16 was Carl Hubbell of the Giants in 1936.

Blackwell, a lean side-arm artist with a buggy whip arm, has captured the public's fancy with his unorthodox delivery and his ungainly appearance. Six foot five and a sparse 185 pounds, the sliver from San Dimas, Cal., provides the one touch of pitching class in a season otherwise dominated by the home-run feats of Johnny Mize and the Giants and the murderous hitting of the Yankees.

Sixteen straight wins with 16 complete games have rocketed the ex-GI into the glare of the spotlight. Every time he pitches, the pressure is heavier, and each out will be a little bit harder until finally somebody stops him.

There were anxious moments for "Blacky" and his Reds last night in the friendly surroundings of Crossley Field. The Phillies, trailing 5-3 going to the ninth, loaded the bases with one out. But they were able to push over only one run and succumbed, 5-4.

Manager Johnny Neun had been criticized in some quarters because he gave Blackwell four full days of rest and did not use him against Brooklyn in the series concluded Thursday. Although the Reds' ace had been working regularly every fourth day, he had four full days rest before his last previous start and Neun wanted to give him the full quota for this important turn.

As a matter of fact, Blackwell's string includes three wins over the league-leading Dodgers who were able to score only one run in that 27-inning stretch, once coming within two outs of being his second straight no-hit victory.

Blackwell struck out nine and did not walk a single Phil in his latest success although nicked for 13 hits. His next start probably will be Wednesday afternoon against the Giants who thrice have succumbed to his mound magic.

Despite the excitement surrounding Blackwell's feat, there were other, and perhaps more important, things going on in the National League.

President Ford Frick ruled Sunday's protested St. Louis-Brooklyn contest a tie game 3-3, deciding that Ron Northey was entitled to the disputed home run because he had been slowed down by Umpire "Beans" Reardon. As a result, the Dodgers lost a win, and the Cards had one less defeat, at least until the game is replayed Aug. 18 as part of a doubleheader.

Brooklyn disposed of Pittsburgh, 4-1, before a banner turnout of 42,014 at Forbes Field, to maintain its lead at five and a half games. Harry Taylor did the honors with a seven-hitter for his eighth win at Mel Queen's expense. The lone Pittsburgh solace was Frank Gustine's ability to hit in his 17th consecutive game.

Chicago thumped the Giants, 5-3, in the league's only day game, despite Johnny Mize's 29th homer, a three-run clout in the fifth inning off Paul Erickson.

The Yankees continued their slugging habits, wearing out four White Sox pitchers, 12-4, with 14 hits, including Larry Berra's eighth homer with a man on in the first inning. Allie Reynolds was the winner over Bob Gillespie as Joe DiMaggio stretched his hitting streak to 13 games.

Washington's Mickey Haefner silenced Cleveland with three hits, 5-1, to make it four straight wins for the Senators, and the A's beat Detroit, 9-5.

And in Fenway Park, under the floodlights, the Red Sox had their troubles earning a 7 to 6 decision over the Browns. Ted Williams hit his 20th homer in the course of the game.

Happy Clamps Ban on Owen In Semipros

DENVER, July 26—(INS)—A. B. (Happy) Chandler, commissioner of major league baseball, reached down into semipro ranks today, to deny Mickey Owen, former Brooklyn catcher, the right to play in a tournament sponsored by the Denver Post.

The ban against Owen, announced through U. S. Sen. Ed. C. Johnson (D.) of Colorado, president of the Western League, is effective because the tourney is scheduled in the Denver Bears' Western League ball park.

Chandler, in his ruling, also threatened to penalize the Kansas City Blues and their parent team, the New York Yankees, because Owen assertedly appeared in the Blues' park three weeks ago.

lyn club last year for a fancy

Owen, who skipped the Brooklyn bonus offered by the Mexican League, has been player-manager this season for a semi-pro team in Springfield, Mo.

The former big leaguer, now under a 5-year-ban from professional ball, is in Council Bluffs, Ia., attending an auctioneers' school. He planned to lead the Springfield Generals club into the Denver tournament next Thursday.

Feller Sought For Mex Tour

CLEVELAND, July 26 (AP)—Alphonso Pasquel, one of three brothers who control the Mexican Baseball League, arrived here today to sign Cleveland Indians' pitcher Bob Feller for a barnstorming tour through Mexico when the American League season closes.

A spokesman for Pasquel said the Mexican baseball operator also was interested in signing leading Negro players for the south-of-the-border circuit.

Pasquel will attend a doubleheader Sunday between the Cleveland Buckeyes of the Negro American League and the Homestead Grays.

He said he would remain here until the Indians return from the east on Friday, Aug. 8, and will contact Feller, who as yet has disclosed no after-season plans.

The five-year suspension on players who join the Mexican League, imposed by Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler last year, still is in effect, but it does not cover the 30-day barnstorming period after the close of the regular season.

BROWNS' SALE??

Richard C. Muckerman, president of the St. Louis Browns, today said it was news to him that an offer had been made to buy the club and move it to Los Angeles.

When asked if Emery C. Perry, Chicago engineer, said he expected to make an offer for the Browns in behalf of a syndicate, Muckerman replied:

"I don't know the man, never talked with him."

Muckerman, reminded of the league rule regarding the shifting of franchises, said:

"The league rule says that you cannot move a club without the unanimous consent of the league.

"You know Mr. Wrigley (president of the Cubs), owns the Los Angeles club and I don't think he would give permission for another to go into Los Angeles."

16 Teams Tee Off For Jacques Cup

Sixteen teams teed-off in the first round matches of the Jacques Cup tournament at The Country Club, Brookline, today.

Among the favored teams were Ted Bishop, National amateur champion from Norfolk, and his Blue Hill partner, Dave Sullivan, the Southern intercollegiate champion, who led the field in the qualifying round yesterday with a three-under-par 68, and Mel Merritt of The Country Club and Dick Chapman, former National champion from Oyster Harbor.

Merritt and Chapman, thanks to a blazing finish, posted a 69 in the qualifying round.

Other highly rated teams are T. Suffern Tailer of Meadbrook, L. I., and Charley Mulcahy of Brae Burn, who also posted a 69 yesterday, and state amateur champion Johnny Chew from Bear Hill, and Ernie Doherty of Woburn.

Chew and Doherty had a qualifying round of 70 as did the duo of Bobby Knowles and Franklin Pfaelzer of the home club.

Hearst National Jr. Golf Finals Will Open in Los Angeles Aug. 18

By BILL GRIMES

Thirty-two youngsters, eight from each of the four sectional qualifying rounds, will be at the Woodland Golf Club next Monday morning to play in the annual Hearst New England Junior championship. The Hearst qualifiers passed their stroke tests at the Pawtucket Golf Club, the South Shore Country Club, the Merrimack Valley Golf Club and the Wachusett Country Club. The medalists were Bernie Fauteux, Paskamansett, Ken Campbell, Wollaston, Jackie Nies, United Shoe, and Don Koenig, Putnam, Ct.

J. Nies, the Bay State junior champion, and Robert "Bucky" Marchese, Country Club of Springfield, the unsuccessful finalist at Worcester, are rated favorites. But the competition in the Hearst, which was open to any boy with or without club affiliations, will be considerably faster than the state juniors.

In the event that some player or players are unable to be at Woodland, the Hearst committee has selected four alternates, namely Ted Newcomb, Jr., Furnace Brook; Paul Kelley, Albemarle; Ronnie Quinn, W. Warwick, R. I.; and Frank Lally, Commonwealth.

The Hearst contestants will have a double incentive at Woodland, the New England junior title and a trip to Los Angeles, where the Hearst National Junior championship will be played at the California Country Club the week of August 18.

The boys who reach the finals at Woodland will qualify for the Hearst Nationals.

Accompanied by the writer, the juniors who survive the semi-finals rounds will leave for the Coast on August 11 and, after a one day lay-over in Chicago, are due to arrive in Los Angeles the night of the 14th.

After the Nationals, the New Englanders will return home via San Francisco, Salt Lake City, Denver and Chicago.

There will be two 18-hole matches at Woodland on Monday and Tuesday and the finals (also 18 holes) will be played Wednesday morning.

CHIP OFF OLD BLOCK

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., July 26 (AP) — Charles James Dykes, son of the one-time major leaguer, Jimmy Dykes, says a broken nose helped him to his .316 batting average, and berth among the leading hitters in the Class C Candian - American League.

Dykes, second baseman for the Schenectady Blue Jays, suffered the nasal injury when struck by a bad-bounding ball June 29. Before that, the 23-year-old infielder was hitting only a paltry .219.

Ollie Fine Retains Marksman Title

YAKIMA, Wash., July 25 (AP) —With a perfect 25-bird shoot-off score, Ollie E. Fine, La Grange, Cal., retained his title today in the 16-yard 200-bird event of the Pacific international trapshoot.

He won the shoot-off when Clarence Townsend of Salem, Ore., missed on the 21st target. They had tied in the regular shoot yesterday with scores of 199. Maynard Henry, Los Angeles, shot 198.

13 Start in Hollywood Gold Cup

INGLEWOOD, Cal., July 26 (AP)—Thirteen candidates battle it out today in the $100,000 Hollywood Gold Cup, with Olhaverry and Honeymoon dominating prerace speculation. A throng expected to number around 50,000 headed for Hollywood Park and the eighth running of the event.

High point of the Hollywood meeting, which winds up next week, the mile and a quarter summertime classic promised fast action—and the possibility of an upset as far as the two top challengers were concerned.

Named in addition to Honeymoon, Harry M. Warner's 4-year-old filly who lost out on the cup by a neck last year, and Olhaverry, the Chilean gray ghost and winner of the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap, were:

Triplicate, Fred Astaire's 1946 winner; Burning Dream, Texas Sandman, Let's Dance, See-Tee-See, Autocrat, Please Me, Cover Up, El Lobo, Monsoon and Paperboy, Honeymoon's stablemate and an unsuccessful aspirant in four of the races.

Some experts elevated Honeymoon into the favorite's role off her easy win a week ago in the $25,000 Vanita Handicap, and dropped Olhaverry down a step in view of his last poor outing and matching workouts the past week.

In addition, Honeymoon as a three-year-old carried 113 pounds and barely lost a year ago; now a year older, she picks up but one pound, while Raoul Espinosa's galloping gray packs top weight of 124.

But out of a pack of hard-hitting outsiders could come a winner, Mrs. J. P. Adams' Burning Dream, with Johnny Longden, the meeting's leading rider, aboard, trounced some of these same horses at a mile and one-eighth in the American Handicap July 4.

Two lightweights, Autocrat at 110 and Please Me at 109, were rated dangerous, and Let's Dance, Texas Sandman, El Lobo and Paperboy were in fine trim. Many handicappers picked Triplicate to finish in the money because of two wins in his last starts.

The race was worth around $75,000 to the winner. The season's largest crowd was 37,736 on Decoration Day; the track record was set the same day last year, when 63,362 turned out. The track hopes the former will be topped, did not look for the latter to be surpassed.

Post time was set for 4:35 p. m. Pacific Standard Time. The race is to be broadcast over NBC.

Gaudio, Shurnas Join Brown Gridders

CLEVELAND, July 26 (AP)—The champion Cleveland Browns of the All-American Football Conference today announced the signing of Guard Bob Gaudio of Ohio State and End Marshall Shurnas of Missouri, increasing to 47 the number of players who will report to the Bowling Green, O., training camp Monday.

Walker Cuppers in Matches For Runyon Cancer Fund

By ARTHUR SULLIVAN

Ted Bishop of Norfolk, the present National amateur golf champion, and three of his Walker Cup teammates will play at the New Bedford Country Club next Thursday in a preliminary to the club's championships which will run for three days.

Bishop will be matching his strokes against Dick Chapman of Greenwich, Willie Turnesa of White Plains, N. Y., and Frank Stranahan of Toledo to help swell the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund.

Of this quartet, Chapman and Turnesa can claim title to the National amateur crown and Stranahan just missed in the defense of his title in the Western amateur in a bitter feud against Bud Ward of Washington last Sunday.

This will be the second visit of Turnesa who, in addition to his aid in the Walker Cup fight in England, carried home the British amateur crown. He made an unsuccessful bid in the Massachusetts Open, as did Ted Bishop. Bishop, however, came closer than did the little fellow from White Plains, for he lost in a playoff to Gene Kunes, a professional from New Jersey.

35-Day Duck Season Seen For Bay State

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

As we mentioned recently, it is likely that Massachusetts hunters will receive a 35-day duck shooting season this fall, starting around Nov. 20, according to the Division of Fisheries and Game. Just how good the sport will be is problematic, for the feathered population has decreased. A report from Ducks Unlimited, that great Canadian organization, has this to say:

"Water levels and duck production continue favorable throughout the southern prairies . . . The overall picture is that as many birds returned to western Canada as last year . . . In many sections, a good hatch is coming from duck populations, which are variously estimated as down 50 per cent . . . Juvenile Pintails and Mallards are now on the wing in southern Alberta."

The report goes on with various figures and charts, but reading between the lines, we'd say that there probably won't be any more ducks this autumn then were on hand last year. Of course, much of the gunning in this area is on black ducks, and State experts say there's hope for local nimrods. At any rate, although the birds are scarce at the moment, hunting interest is growing daily, despite the fact that it's only midsummer.

OUTDOOR O. O.'S: Dot and Ernie Lind, famous exhibition shooters, will be featured in the New Hampshire Sportsmen's Show during the Labor Day weekend at Bear Brook Reservation, Allenstown, midway between Concord and Manchester. More than 50 championship contests will be included in the big show . . . Mackerel are due any day in Quincy bay. Good catches of cod, flounders, and haddock are being boated in these waters by scores of anglers . . . Walden Pond, Concord, is yielding a few fair-sized black bass and pickerel, in the early morning hours . . . Striped bass are hitting well at North Beach, Nauset.

RED SOX KAYO BROWNS PITCHERS

FENWAY PARK, July 26—Ted Williams hammered out his 21st and 22d home runs of the year in the game with the Browns here today before more than 10,000 persons. Ted had hit his 20th in last night's contest which the Sox took from the Browns, and his slugging today indicated that he's bent on rocketing his batting average which he has lifted from about .300 to .330 in recent games.

Ted's homers today both were long wallops into the right field stands. Jake Jones, Sox first baseman, also homered today.

Williams almost had another homer in the fourth, when Negro rookie outfielder Willard Brown backed up against the centerfield wall to take Ted's terrific drive.

Joe Dobson started for the Sox today, against Cliff Fannin of the Browns.

The Sox won by 12 to 1.

FIRST INNING

BROWNS — Dillinger flied to DiMaggio. Berardino singled. Lehner tripled scoring Berardino. Dente threw out Stephens, Lehner holding third. Doerr threw out Coleman, ONE RUN.

RED SOX — Dente singled. Dente was out stealing, Moss to Berardino. Pesky walked. Mele flied to Coleman. Williams hit a home run into the right field bleachers scoring behind Pesky. Doerr flied to Coleman. TWO RUNS.

SECOND INNING

BROWNS—Brown flied to DiMaggio. Judnich went out, Jones to Dobson who covered first. Moss was called out on strikes. NO RUNS.

RED SOX—DiMaggio walked. Jones hit a home run into the netting in left field scoring DiMaggio. Tebbetts walked. Muncrief replaced Fannin. Dobson sacrificed, Muncrief to Berardino who covered first. Dente popped to Berardino. Pesky flied to Brown. TWO RUNS.

THIRD INNING

BROWNS—Muncrief was called out on strikes. Dente threw out Dillinger. Dobson threw out Berardino. NO RUNS.

RED SOX—Mele singled. Williams hit a home run into the right field bleachers scoring behind Mele. It was his 22nd of the season. Doerr doubled. DiMaggio fanned. So did Jones. Tebbetts singled scoring Doerr. Dobson forced Tebbetts, Stephens to Berardino. THREE RUNS.

FOURTH INNING

BROWNS — Lehner singled. Lehner was picked off first, Tebbetts to Jones. Stephens fanned. So did Coleman. NO RUNS.

RED SOX—Dente flied to Coleman. Pesky doubled. Mele singled, scoring Pesky. Williams flied to Brown. Doerr fanned. ONE RUN.

FIFTH INNING

BROWNS—Brown flied to DiMaggio. Judnich went out the same way. Pesky threw out Moss. NO RUNS.

RED SOX—DiMaggio singled. Jones singled. Tebbetts singled scoring DiMaggio, Jones stopping at second. Dobson sacrificed Muncrief to Berardino who covered first. Dente singled, scoring Jones and Tebbetts. Walter Brown replaced Muncrief. Pesky singled. Dente going to third. Mele flied to Lehner, Dente scoring after the catch. Berardino threw out Williams. FOUR RUNS.

SIXTH INNING

BRWNS — W. Brown fanned. Dillinger popped to Tebbetts, Berardino singled. Lehner flied to DiMaggio. NO RUNS.

RED SOX—Stephens threw out Doerr. DiMaggio singled. Jones forced DiMaggio, Berardino to Stephens. Tebbetts hit to Berardino who stepped on second forcing Jones. NO RUNS.

SEVENTH INNING

BROWNS—Gutteridge playing second base for the Red Sox. Stephens singled. Coleman fouled to Jones. W. J. Brown forced Stephens, Pesky to Gutteridge. Judnich fouled to Jones. NO RUNS.

RED SOX — Dobson singled. Dente was called out on strikes. Pesky forced Dobson, Stephens to Berardino. Mele forced Pesky, Berardino to Stephens. NO RUNS.

EIGHTH INNING

BROWNS—Dente threw out Moss. Thompson batted for W. Brown and singled. Dillinger hit into a double play, Pesky to Gutteridge to Jones. NO RUNS.

RE DSOX—Swart now pitching for the Browns. Berardino threw out Williams. Gutteridge flied to Coleman. Stephens threw out Di Maggio. NO RUNS.

NINTH INNING

BROWNS — Culberson playing left field for the Red Sox. Berardino fouled to Tebbetts. Lehner popped to Gutteridge. Stephens flied to Culberson. NO RUNS.

Minnesotan Scales Discus to New Mark

OSLO, July 26 (AP)—Another new wdiscus mark by an American was up for consideration today after Fortune Gordien of Minnesota had bettered the recognized world record of 175 feet held by an Italian, Adolfo Consolini, since 1941.

Gordien hurled the platter 178.47 feet during the concluding program of the three-day international meet at Bislet Stadium. Twenty thousand spectators cheered thunderously as the disc tossed by Gordien sailed past the white flag marking the world record distance.

Margaret Osborne, Louise Brough in U. S.

NEW YORK, July 26 (AP)—Margaret Osborne of San Francisco and Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Cal., the top-ranking feminine tennis stars of the United States, arrived here by plane today from Europe, where they have appeared in major tournaments during the past six weeks.

Miss Osborne won the women's singles title at Wimbledon and teamed with Miss Brough to take the doubles crown in the French international championships in Paris.

Breadon 71; Predicts Cards Will Win Flag

ST. LOUIS, July 26 (AP)—Sam Breadon was 71 years old today and baseball's David Harum assured the world his champion St. Louis Cardinals will win another National League pennant.

"We're really going now and we'll make it," he said.

Ace Midget Car Drivers Duel at Franklin Tonight

FRANKLIN, July 26—All of New England's top flight midget auto racing drivers will be in action here tonight when a program of seven races will be staged at the local floodlit oval.

Bob Blair of Dedham and Oscar Ridlon of Boston are among the stars who will compete.

Child, 8, Accuses Neighbor—Dorothy Cransten, 8, of Center st., West Roxbury, in the same bed from which she was taken by a prowler and carried to her yard and mistreated, tells Special Officers Edward Weiler and (right) Henry M. Coughlin the name of her attacker, whom she identified as a 32-year-old neighbor. The child, who was alone in the house at the time of the assault, was bruised and fever-ridden today as a result of her ordeal. The man she named is being held.

RED SOX KAYO BROWNS PITCHERS

FENWAY PARK, July 26—Ted Williams hammered out his 21st and 22d home runs of the year in the game with the Browns here today before more than 10,000 persons. Ted had hit his 20th in last night's contest which the Sox took from the Browns, and his slugging today indicated that he's bent on rocketing his batting average which he has lifted from about .300 to .330 in recent games.

Ted's homers today both were long wallops into the right field stands. Jake Jones, Sox first baseman, also homered today.

Williams almost had another homer in the fourth, when Negro rookie outfielder Willard Brown backed up against the centerfield wall to take Ted's terrific drive.

Joe Dobson started for the Sox today, against Cliff Fannin of the Browns.

The Sox won by 12 to 1.

FIRST INNING

BROWNS—Dillinger flied to DiMaggio. Berardino singled. Lehner tripled scoring Berardino. Dente threw out Stephens, Lehner holding third. Doerr threw out Coleman. ONE RUN.

RED SOX — Dente singled. Dente was out stealing, Moss to Berardino. Pesky walked. Mele flied to Coleman. Williams hit a home run into the right field bleachers scoring behind Pesky. Doerr flied to Coleman. TWO RUNS.

SECOND INNING

BROWNS—Brown flied to DiMaggio. Judnich went out, Jones to Dobson who covered first. Moss was called out on strikes. NO RUNS.

RED SOX—DiMaggio walked. Jones hit a home run into the netting in left field scoring DiMaggio. Tebbetts walked. Muncrief replaced Fannin. Dobson sacrificed, Muncrief to Berardino who covered first. Dente popped to Berardino. Pesky flied to Brown. TWO RUNS.

THIRD INNING

BROWNS—Muncrief was called out on strikes. Dente threw out Dillinger. Dobson threw out Berardino. NO RUNS.

RED SOX—Mele singled. Williams hit a home run into the right field bleachers scoring behind Mele. It was his 22nd of the season. Doerr doubled. DiMaggio fanned. So did Jones. Tebbetts singled scoring Doerr. Dobson forced Tebbetts, Stephens to Berardino. THREE RUNS.

FOURTH INNING

BROWNS — Lehner singled. Lehner was picked off first, Tebbetts to Jones. Stephens fanned. So did Coleman. NO RUNS.

RED SOX—Dente flied to Coleman. Pesky doubled. Mele singled, scoring Pesky. Williams flied to Brown. Doerr fanned. ONE RUN.

FIFTH INNING

BROWNS—Brown flied to DiMaggio. Judnich went out the same way. Pesky threw out Moss. NO RUNS.

RED SOX—DiMaggio singled. Jones singled. Tebbetts singled scoring DiMaggio, Jones stopping at second. Dobson sacrificed Muncrief to Berardino who covered first. Dente singled, scoring Jones and Tebbetts. Walter Brown replaced Muncrief. Pesky singled. Dente going to third. Mele flied to Lehner, Dente scoring after the catch. Berardino threw out Williams. FOUR RUNS.

SIXTH INNING

BRWNS — W. Brown fanned. Dillinger popped to Tebbetts, Berardino singled. Lehner flied to DiMaggio. NO RUNS.

RED SOX—Stephens threw out Doerr. DiMaggio singled. Jones forced DiMaggio, Berardino to Stephens. Tebbetts hit to Berardino who stepped on second forcing Jones. NO RUNS.

SEVENTH INNING

Minnesotan Scales Discus to New Mark

OSLO, July 26 (AP)—Another new wdiscus mark by an American was up for consideration today after Fortune Gordien of Minnesota had bettered the recognized world record of 175 feet held by an Italian, Adolfo Consolini, since 1941.

Gordien hurled the platter 178.47 feet during the concluding program of the three-day international meet at Bislet Stadium. Twenty thousand spectators cheered thunderously as the disc tossed by Gordien sailed past the white flag marking the world record distance.

Margaret Osborne, Louise Brough in U. S.

NEW YORK, July 26 (AP)—Margaret Osborne of San Francisco and Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Cal., the top-ranking feminine tennis stars of the United States, arrived here by plane today from Europe, where they have appeared in major tournaments during the past six weeks.

Miss Osborne won the women's singles title at Wimbledon and teamed with Miss Brough to take the doubles crown in the French international championships in Paris.

Breadon 71; Predicts Cards Will Win Flag

ST. LOUIS, July 26 (AP)—Sam Breadon was 71 years old today and baseball's David Harum assured the world his champion St. Louis Cardinals will win another National League pennant.

"We're really going now and we'll make it," he said.

Ace Midget Car Drivers Duel at Franklin Tonight

FRANKLIN, July 26—All of New England's top flight midget auto racing drivers will be in action here tonight when a program of seven races will be staged at the local Floodlit oval.

Bob Blaisdell of Dedham and Oscar Ridlon of Boston are among the stars who will compete.
